Egypt Cultural Exchange Programme

"I cannot pretend I am without fear. But my predominant feeling is one of gratitude. I have loved and been loved; I have been given much and I have given something in return; I have read and travelled and thought and written."

Appreciating diversity has always been the working principal of DPS SRINAGAR in continuity with that two teachers Ms. Romana Shariq and Ms. Syed Sumaira were privileged to be the part of cultural exchange programme held in Egypt for a period of seven days i.e from "feb 1 to feb 7 which has proved beneficial for both of us.

Egypt is a land of shifting desert sands, a land of giant pyramids, land of Pharaohs, land of the Nile, ancient civilizations and amazing temples. Our one week travel to Egypt included visit to Cairo also known as "The city of One thousand and one Minarets". The programme was planned in such a manner that we interacted with so many Egyptian women and teenagers "

This programme is a volunteer exchange programme where volunteers host other volunteers from AFS countries around the world. This programme provides an opportunity for the volunteers to develop intercultural competencies for a just and peaceful world. The volunteers are given a chance to get immersed in the life of a new community living with a host family and breaking down the barriers between cultures and people. It also helps in building bridges of understanding and mutual respect between countries and cultures around the world.

To sum up it was a programme to motivate teachers to look beyond the boundries and start working at an international platform. A way to introspect ourselves to measure our own capacities and bringing them out in the form of a good and confident person.

Our heartfelt gratitude to our Principal Ms.Kusam Warikoo, Chairman Mr.Vijay Dhar, and AFS India for giving us this opportunity to participate in this amazing and life changing programme.

LKG – First Day at School

Teachers lit the unlit candles , sharp ray of hope piercing the darkness and guiding towards light.....

LKG, being a child's first experience in the formal educational system, is an anxious time for both children and parents which is why special care was taken to create a warm, welcoming and cheerful atmosphere in which children feel secure and happy. The school opened for LKG amidst great enthusiasm and expectation with some kids feeling excited and some of them were a little nervous and crying too. Later, such an ambience was made so that their transition to school becomes a smooth and happy progression.

Stamp design competition on women empowerment ideas in the form of drawing. Children exhibited their talents using crayons, water colours and were found engrossed in their work. The work was amazing as the children had let their imagination run wild and create absolute magic.

Such contests are an excellent way of expressing hidden wishes, desires and dreams in the form of art.

"Plant A Tree, Save Mother Earth"

10th April was celebrated as a Plantation Day in Delhi Public School Srinagar where 1200 children of class (LKG-II) of TINY TOTS wing participated in an activity by planting a sapling, while being made aware of the importance of planting trees to save our beloved "Mother Earth" which proved to be very purposeful.

Children had a lot of fun planting saplings of both vegetables like cauliflower, cabbage, Kashmiri Haak as well as flowering plants like Sylvia, Petunia etc. The youngsters were clear that afforestation was the need of the hour. "Plants give us oxygen," said a toddler from UKG. "We have cut down trees causing floods," said another well informed class II student. This activity taught them to live a healthy life both physically and mentally and also treat plants as very important aspect of their life.

This activity marked the beginning of a long-term environmental program, engaging our students in a fun, hands on activity that reinforced their environmental science knowledge in a creative way.

All the pupils along with their teachers planted saplings in the school. Each sapling represented every student's dream of "Clean Srinagar, Green Srinagar."

Welcome party for LKG

Tiny Tots celebrates Jashn-e-Bahara Day

Spring is nature's way of saying, 'Let's party!' Robin Williams

Tiny Tots at DPS, Srinagar celebrated the spring festival "Jashn-e-Bahar" on 17th April, 2015 where the idea was to enjoy the beauty of spring. Spring brings happiness, colour and hope, not only to our campus but also to all our lives, as we move throughout the cycle of the seasons. Children were dressed up in colourful and vibrant attires which gave Tiny Tots a festive look.

The mood in Tiny Tots was festive when the celebration commenced with teachers swaying gracefully to the lyrics of "Roshi vala meani dilbaro" followed by a skit on the importance of flowers in our lives. Students also danced to their heart's content with their laughter and happiness reverberating in the wing. Let's hope for more joyous celebrations as the year progresses.

LKG Parent Orientation

The LKG Parent Orientation was held on 23rd April 2015 and was attended by maximum number of parents .

Surabhi Jamal, Academic-in-charge stressed on the importance of attending orientation programs which help in building ties between parents-teachers and the management and said that, "It is a must attend day, not only this year, but in the years to come."

Parents were informed about the Early Childhood Education program followed in school which is prescribed by the National Curriculum Framework document 2005 in which the method of instruction is child-centred, activity-oriented and with an informal learning ambience. These points are an integral and non-negotiable feature of teaching in our school. Assessment in both LKG and UKG would be informal in nature.

Parents were shown a short movie on the activities conducted like Mask Party, Jashne-Bahara Diwas, Plantation Day, Campus visit What's in my sandwich activity all which helped in giving each child a variety of opportunities and experiences which would all lead to the all round development of the child which includes physical, mental, social emotional well being leading to school readiness i.e. prepared for formal schooling.

LKG – First Parent Teacher Meeting held on 23rd April 2015

After the LKG parent Orientation, eager parents met their ward's home room teachers, where they were given details of their ward's first days in school. Teachers informed parents about how well their ward had settled down in class, his/her enthusiasm towards learning rhymes, action songs etc.

Learning should be a passionate and interactive process in which children are allowed to explore. While the school is committed to building such an environment, it believes that learning is not complete without the parents commitment to the same ideals. Only then will the magic unfold.

PTMs are an integral part of communication of each child's progress and must be attended by both parents, is a belief that the school holds.

In the power point presentation that follows I would like to give you information regarding the school's history, its infrastructure as well as highlighting both the methodology used in teaching students in their first year in school as well as assessment procedures followed. Frequently asked questions on school procedures rules, communication through campus manager will also be answered.

Eye Movement Desensitisation and Reprocessing (EMDR) Workshop

EYE MOVEMENT DESENSITIZATION & REPROCESSING – A psychotherapy involve the techniques to reduce vivid, unwanted and repeated recollection of traumatic events.

Eye movement desensitization and reprocessing (EMDR) is a psychotherapy developed by Francine Shapiro that emphasises disturbing memories as cause of psychotherapy. It is used to help with the symptoms of Post-Traumatic Stress Disorder (PTSD). According to Shapiro, when a traumatic or distressing experience occurs it may overwhelm normal coping mechanisms. The memory and associated stimuli are inadequately processed and stored in an isolated memory network. The goal of EMDR therapy is to process these disturbing memories reducing their long lasting effects and allowing the person to develop more adaptive coping mechanisms. This therapy is done in eight phases approach that includes having the person recall distressing images while receiving one of several bilateral sensory input including side to side eye movements. The world health organization stated that EMDR therapy is one of the psychotherapy recommended for children, adolescents, and adults with PTSD. These techniques help people reduce vivid, unwanted, and repeated recollections of traumatic events. The basic guiding principle of EMDR is adaptive information processing (AIP) model. This model reveals that health is supported by positive and successful experiences that increasingly prepare a person to handle new challenges and that the brain is equipped to manage and process the adversity. Yet there are negative life experiences that can elude a person's brain to complete the processing of difficult memories, and results in the reduction of suffering and symptoms and the development of new coping skills that can support psychological health. EMDR includes procedures which incorporate the three prolonged protocols of past, present, future.

Trauma Recovery EMDR Humanitarian Assistance Programmes (HAP) is a non-profit organisation that provides training in trauma focussed therapeutic approaches. All the trainers and facilitators voluntarily gave their time in training of people, so that EMDR will be available to those who need it most. Workshop of EMDR was conducted by a team of trauma recovery (HAP) the renowned psychologists which included Dr. Dushyant, Dr. Sushma, Dr. Parul, Miss Wabhvi, Dr. Chintan and others. During workshop they not only conducted group sessions with the different classes but as well provided the counselors of school with the training to conduct EMDR therapy with other children in order to elevate their flood trauma that occurred in September 2014. Floods of 2014 not only stroked the minds of adults but also equally affected the tender minds of children. So the counselor of DPS conducted group sessions with all the children in school from tiny tots to higher classes to help them on working their traumatic experiences. The EMDR therapy turned to be very helpful for many children by making their brains to reprocess the worst memories. EMDR consists of eight phases and each phase has its precise intentions.

Phase 1: History and Treatment Planning

Here in counselors evaluated the children history and developed a general plan for treatment. This includes primary complaint of client.

Phase 2: Preparation

The students were helped to find the ways to cope with distressing emotions through the different relaxation techniques. So that they can calm down themselves from memories that disturb them very much.

Phase 3: Assessment

In this stage the students were made to visualize an image that represents their disturbing event and describe a thought or negative cognition associated with the image. Then they were asked to develop a positive cognition to be associated with the same image that is developed in place of negative one. Children were also asked about the validity of their positive cognition using a 1-7 scale (VOC) the children were asked to focus on images, thoughts, body sensations that he/she can sense.

Phase 4: Desensitization

In this stage students were made to focus on disturbing memory in multiple brief sets of about 15-13 seconds. Simultaneously children were made to focus on dual attention stimulus, which consists of focusing on the trauma while initiating the lateral movements such as tapping on knees or doing butterfly hug. This process of personal association was repeated many times during the session until the children felt no distress when thinking of target memory or worst memory.

Phase 5: Installation

In this phase students focused on positive cognition. The students were asked to hold positive thought in mind and carry on with stimulation till the positive cognition (pc) was fully installed.

Phase 6: Body Scan

In this stage the focus remains on the identifying and eliciting any negative and unusual sensations using the bilateral stimulation technique body scan is completed when students reported no more physical or emotional discomfort.

Phase 7: Closure

All the traumatic events were not resolved within one session students were made to do relaxation techniques and overcome their trauma and bring about emotional stability.

Phase 8: Re Evaluation

At this session the work done in initial session was re-evaluated in order to decide to continue on previous targets or continue to newer ones.

The response of students from all the age groups was marvelous, students really found it helpful as it helped them to elevate their traumatic memories. Students found it very worthwhile as their worst experiences were reprocessed. Many of them before therapy reported nightmares, less sleep, physical sensations, vomiting and headache etc.,. But the therapy gradually helped them to overcome it. On overall basis it was a fantastic workshop ever conducted with the students that helped them to work on their traumatic experiences and really did wonders for students as they found themselves more relieved and relaxed after getting rid of their worst memories.

An Overview of Burzahoma Trip (Class-VI)

Social Science faculty arranged a trip to Burzahoma on 20th May 2015 which is a Neolithic site situated towards North –eastern side of the Srinagar city on a flat kerewa near present Burzahoma village. The pre-historic sites of Kashmir push back the history of Kashmiri civilisation to seven thousand years and more. They reveal the various phases of Kashmiri culture and establish the evidence of Kashmiri's connection with the neighbouring countries and regions. Burzahoma is the first stage of settled population in the valley. We started our journey from school and reached Burzahoma sharp at 10 am. Students first observe the pit dwellings or Earth Houses which were used by the people of Burzahoma to live in. These pits were dug with sharp edged stones, which is revealed from the walls of the pits. The latest pit at the site was 2.74 metres on the top while its width was 4.57 metres at the bottom. The depth of the pit was 3.95 metres.

After observing the pit dwellings students come across Megaliths which are large stone structures or groups of standing stones located at the site. Megaliths are believed to have religious significance. After observing these artefacts of this archaeological site, a very informative and interesting lecture was delivered by the co-ordinator of social science faculty regarding the site, that it was identified by H.de-Terrea and Patterson in 1935 and later excavated by A.S. in the 1960's for about ten years under the supervision of Mr. T.N Khazanchi. At Burzahoma site, four periods representing the continuous process of development has been recognized of which period I and II exclusively belong to Neolithic age. Period III to Megalithic and period IV to early historical. Excavations have revealed the domestication of agriculture by the Neolithic man of Kashmir which is proved by the presence of remains of crops like wheat and Barley. The tools found at this site, were polished and smooth. Both stone and bone tools have been found. Remains excavated have shown that the industry of bone tools was at an advanced stage at Burzahoma for making tools, the horns of Kashmiri Hangul (stag) were used. It becomes evident that Hangul in Kashmir is as old as the valley. During the second phase, not much development was observed except for the invention of pottery. The pottery obviously, was hand made, rough in structure and shape and was primarily used for storing grains and milk. To conclude it may be in the fitness of things to mention here that such trips should be organised in future because it proves very handy for the teachers in general and the students in particular.

Traditional Dress Day Celebrations

Traditional Day celebrated at DPS (TINY TOTS WING)

“It takes an endless amount of history to make even a little tradition.”

Though the world is changing in terms of trends, technology and modern discoveries, we are all strongly rooted to our tradition. Tradition includes beliefs and customs which we strongly adhere to or respect. Every government or society or country or state has their own practices which they want to preserve and pass on in hopes of keeping tradition alive. The word 'tradition' comes from the Latin word traditionem which means “handing over, passing on”.

As we at, Delhi Public School, Srinagar have students from different regions and religions, 'Traditional Day' was celebrated on 29th of May, 2015 with great pomp and show. Children from LKG to 2nd standard were dressed in colourful traditional attires. Morning prayer was followed by singing a song “Hum honge kamyab....” sending a clear message that children of the 21st century can overcome any and every obstacle. It was delightful to visualize our youngest lot of children from Tiny Tots singing Kashmiri song “Niyai traviv maae thaviv paniwan”. This was followed by ramp show of children presenting traditional dresses of different regions. They also danced on the tunes of Kashmiri and Punjabi songs. The atmosphere was filled with fun and frolic. It was a moment of great 'joy and pride' as we all stood united to celebrate spirit of religious harmony. Later, children exchanged candies with each other to show love and mutual respect. This was just one of the many ways the school marked the day, which aims to promote 'Unity in Diversity'.

Short skits were presented by the students of Class I and II on the topic 'Health is Wealth'. Children from all the classes orated various health benefits of eating healthy food, maintaining cleanliness, physical fitness, etc. They also sung different songs related to said theme. School Song written by our student, Mahia Bashir

Of hope, glory, humility
Faith, paragon, creativity
Esteem, honour, ecstasy
Persistence and verity

Blessed from heavens by almighty
Imbued by the DPS progeny
Proud we are of our legacy
For it is no mere fantasy

We dream , we aim , we light the way
Strive for the best and seize the day
God, enlighten us we all do pray
Ignorance, thus we keep at bay

In toiling tenacity we shall thrive
Hone our zeal, zest, verve and drive
Being humane is what we shall learn
The midnight oilsure we shall burn

Dipsites have and will make a difference
For learning is bound by no fence
Like roses we will leave our incense
In pure pursuit of excellence

Indeed we are the gems of this earth
The hope of the land of our birth
So pledge, dipsites will sure make peace
The world from doom and gloom release
That everything will be even
Each bud blossom in this Eden

SEN - Special Education Needs

"Parents need to fill a child's bucket of self esteem so high that the rest of the world can't poke enough holes to drain it dry"

This session the SEN department had invited parents of our students for a tea party. The idea behind was to build a "parent support group" where they can feel comfortable to share their concerns, views and strategies with each other. It was made mandatory that parent's have to get involved with the teachers while setting the targets to achieve the set goals in the IEP (Individualized educational Plan) of a child. Teaching a child with special needs "a tripolar process", where the child, parents and teachers have to take equal responsibility in overcoming the shortcomings of the children. Discussion regarding keeping and maintaining ongoing process of communication between parents and teachers to achieve the best results. A brief speech was delivered by Dr. Nusrat, a parent counselor and a parent herself on different stages i.e. anger, denial and acceptance as a parent of a special needs child. To focus on a shift between denial and acceptance, parents needs to work on themselves. Emphasis was laid how the parents can read books and surf internet to keep themselves updated. In case the parent is ignorant or not having the provisions, it is important to ask somebody to acquaint them to help their child effectively.

As we believe children to be independent in all respects of the life, we are trying to impart and build skill sets of our students. Besides all the other vocational courses and trainings, we have introduced "Movie Arena"---- where children will be able to design their own documentaries, capturing and editing videos etc.

We have induced "contrast keyboards" for the children who are having the concerns of low vision. By using this keyboard, because the alphabets are big in size, base colour is yellow and the font colour is black, which is making the alphabets vibrant and attractive for the children to type.

To increase the attention span of the students who find it difficult to focus on an assigned task, "Colour Keyboard" has been introduced and this keyboard has a hard rubber coating which helps a student to develop his fine motor skills.

Home visits play a very important role in planning the IEP's of a student wherever required. This session we accomplished 6 home visits for 6 students and the response we got in terms of planning and enhancing cognitive and all the other personality development skills was remarkable.
